

Looking at Europe

by Ida Magli

www.italianiliberi.it / April 11th, 2011

Let us have a look at this Europe! It really is disgusting. Disgusting because of its cowardice, of its infamous hypocrisy, of its treasonable aggression to the African peoples, who are infinitely weaker; and most of all because of the will of killing its own citizens and their civilization, making them pay for the costs of their own murder.

Whatever happened to the European Union? It just melted away. In these last days of warlike denial of the "pacifist" roots of the European Union, not one of the thousands of politicians living in Bruxelles recalled that – just few months ago – they appointed a Foreign Affairs European Ministry, as a completion of the Lisbon Constitution and Treaty. To stress the importance of this post, they appointed a British (baroness Ashton) and hired eight thousand officials in order to open an embassy in each country of the world. But each European State still has its own foreign policy.

The European Union was just a bluff, and its main goal was to make Europe the passive object of the Islamic conquest, using a series of rules and laws that were conceived for that purpose: the cancellation of the national borders and of controls on people and goods; the utmost protection of foreigners, clashing with all the interest of the inhabitants; the European arrest warrant for nonexistent "offenses" such as racism. This last was invented in order to protect the foreigners, and has been severely enforced by the anti-defamation League and its branches. We know by heart all these things, and if anybody is still amazed about them it is just because we cannot not really believe that – creating the European Union – the governors of Europe actually wanted to destroy their own States and pursued the cultural and physical annihilation and death of their peoples.

Now the proofs are so self evident that it is impossible to be deceived. France attacked Libya and the Cote d'Ivoire breaking the taboo on the word "war", without conferring with the so much beloved European "brothers". But politicians knew all too well the reasons why this attack was prepared and launched: the pseudo rebellions that almost contemporarily took place in all the north african States were instigated and financed by the United States. They wanted a sort of "democratic" justification for setting their foot in those countries, so that they will create the governments that they like and never go away. It is an old and consolidated american strategy: to create "democratic" wars and never completely "win" them, so that they can remain forever in the involved countries, taking possession of foreign territory. What about the deaths, the enormous military expenses and the negative image of U.S.A. abroad? Never mind: the citizens-subjects will pay for all, the americans and those of the other countries involved. America just wants to be there, and to homologate all peoples to its own model, besides putting its hands on their oil and raw materials. The inescapable result of this politics, however, is the invasion of Europe from african people. Even supposing that our governors are complete idiots, we cannot believe that they did not foresee that bombing them they would flee to Europe. And since it takes a long time to put together the huge amount of money necessary for the trip to Europe, they just offered them the right time and opportunity to do it.

What it is happening right now with the problem of the immigrants from Tunisia and the fight between Italy and France is just a small proof of the enormous lie that gave start to the European Union: "we are all equal, we are brothers, we have the same Motherland, the same citizenship, the same territory and currency, we love each other so much and we will never make war again". But we will fight new wars - easy prophecy - and this will just be the last phase of our agony. The final goal will be reached: Europe will be destroyed with all its Civilization, Science, Philosophy, Art, Christianity, Law, Beauty. It will be replaced by the Europe of the African people, who were never able to produce "thought". They will oppose no resistance to the people that - sitting on the riverside - are waiting to see the european dead body pass: Russia and China. This of course will be a great loss also for the United States, but americans, too, are not able to "think". The main contribution to the american thought came almost all from european immigrants: Germans, French, Italians, who gave the greater contribution to the intellectual american production. Since Russians and Chinese are able to think, they cannot hope for anything better than this.

Ida Magli

Rome, April 11th, 2011