

Bilderberg is Designating the next President of the Italian Republic

by Ida Magli

ItalianiLiberi, March 21st, 2013

In the recent past – which looks so far away – the Italians were promised they will soon have the direct election of the Head of State, but this never happened. Our governments – whatever their ideology and political orientation – are all mr. Monti-style: resolute and rapid only in raising taxes. For everything else, they have a very very slow pace, until when those promises will fall into oblivion. No direct election of the Italian President, therefore. Some men are choosing him for us, without asking permission: they belong to the Power that silently planned and imposed the unification of Europe, created and imposed the single currency and continues to rule over the most important events regarding the life of the single States; and those States are obeying in the most absolute silence. These men are represented by other men whose faces and names we barely know: they were sent on the front line to implement their will. We can recognize them because whatever they plan turns out to be a disaster, and whatever they achieve always is a failure.

The newspapers proposed several names as possible future Italian Presidents: mr. Amato, mr. Prodi and mr. D'Alema. We can wonder how many votes they would get if the Italians could vote them directly! Very few, for sure; in the past years, they have always been rejected by the People. Therefore their names are now being proposed by a Power that is alien to democracy; they are functional to the European financial project, which is the forerunner of a future global financial governance. Until now, no politician said a word about this: everybody keeps silent in front of the Power that is hiding behind Europe. But in the last years we saw how and why mr. Ciampi became Italian President: he was an enthusiastic supporter of the Euro in tandem with the astute mr. Prodi. The two of them stripped Italy of almost all of its valuable assets and sold them off, just to make Italy enter inside the Heavenly World of the Euro. So we understand that the reward is always the same: first you show that you are a loyal servant of the european and world financial Power, and that you will fulfill the assigned task notwithstanding the suffering and damage that you are inflicting to your country and fellow citizens. Then you become President of the Republic. This same reasoning can be applied to the other names; the Presidency of the italian Republic is entrusted to the Bilderberg.

Unfortunately, we now have a long and sad experience of the almost absolute lack of intelligence that is a feature of the members of the Bilderberg club and its emissaries (be it mr. Monti or the like); this is clearly shown by the disastrous outcome of their actions. Now the politicians should face reality once for all. Even if we pretend to ignore what is happening in these days (the enormous mess they made in Cyprus, for example) many financial analysts are foreseeing a possible collapse of the euro in the second semester of 2013; if not a crack, there will be increasing difficulties in the management of the economy in Europe. It would not be very nice to have a newly appointed President of the Italian republic - a man that is supposed to represent Italy on the world stage - and to know that he is one of the main responsible of the collapse.

Ida Magli

March 21st, 2013

Traduzione a cura di Marina Mascetti